Mr. Creel said that the purpose of the been expended by so many artists all o'clock this afternoon at the home of his films was to aid in the campaign of driv-ing home to everybody the progress of the United States and he added that the answer of the nation does not come through any one class or by any single endeavor but through united effort. Sacrifices at home are necessarily small compared to the sacrifice of giving one's blood and life itself, as the soldlers in France are doing, Mr. Creel pointed out.

"To whine, to nag, to think in terms of personal profit are things that come under the head of treason," he said. "Let's fix it so that we will not have to wear gas masks at home."

Mr Creel admitted that there have
